

Jamell Tate

@jamelltatephotos

I am a photographer who was born and raised in New Orleans. As of now my lens is mainly focused on the black experience and cultural contributions that helped make New Orleans the rich city it is today. As a photographer who not only was born and raised here, but who is black, grew up playing brass instruments, and having lived all over the now gentrified neighborhoods of New Orleans (mostly in poverty), I do feel responsible to put out images that represent what life is like here for people like me. The only thing greater than the responsibility to capture is the privilege to be in a position to do so.

Residency Work

photography show

solo show, second saturday exhibition, pop ups

